According to history, Revolutionary War hero General Francis Marion was oft referred to as "The Swamp Fox." After British troops captured Charleston (SC) in 1780 and forced American troops out of the city, Francis Marion stayed in the area and trained his troops in guerrilla tactics. He led his "small and poorly equipped troops" on daring raids, which forced the British out of South Carolina. The British nicknamed him the "Swamp Fox" because "he was impossible to catch." Decades ago Waycross College chose such an important historical figure as its mascot with the connotation that students attending WC might also become "smart as a fox."

AN AFFIRMATIVE ACTION/EQUAL OPPORTUNITY INSTITUTION
THE UNIVERSITY SYSTEM OF GEORGIA

THE UNIVERSITY SYSTEM OF GEORGIA

The University System of Georgia includes all state-operated institutions of higher education in Georgia--4 research universities, 2 regional universities, 16 state colleges/universities, 13 associate degree colleges. These 35 public institutions are located throughout the state.

A 18-member constitutional Board of Regents governs the University System, which has been in operation since 1932. Appointments of Board members are made by the Governor, subject to confirmation by the State Senate. Regular terms of Board members are seven years.

The Chairperson, Vice Chairperson, and other officers of the Board of Regents are elected by the members of the Board. The Chancellor, who is not a Board member, is the chief executive officer of the Board and the chief administrative officer of the University System.

The overall programs and services of the University System are offered through three major components: Instruction, Public Service/Continuing Education, and Research.

INSTRUCTION consists of programs of study leading toward degrees, ranging from the associate (two-year) level to the doctoral level.

The degree programs range from the traditional liberal arts studies to professional and other highly specialized studies.

PUBLIC SERVICE/CONTINUING EDUCATION consists of non-degree activities, primarily, and special types of college degree credit courses. The non-degree activities include short courses, seminars, and conferences. Typical college degree credit courses are those offered through extension center programs and teacher education consortiums.

RESEARCH encompasses scholarly investigations conducted for discovery and application of knowledge. Most of the research is conducted through the universities; however, some of it is conducted through several of the senior colleges. The research investigations cover matters related to the educational objectives of the institutions and to general societal needs.

The policies of the Board of Regents provide a high degree of autonomy for each institution. The executive head of each institution is the President, whose election is recommended by the Chancellor and approved by the Board.

State appropriations for the University System are requested by, made to, and allocated by the Board of Regents. The largest share of state appropriations is allocated for Instruction.
